

Educational Disruptors

CONVERSATIONS WITH INNOVATORS IN EDUCATION

Edgar Blunt, founder and CEO of IMAGO— an education technology company focused on Social Emotional Learning curriculum, wants to live in a world filled with happy and fulfilled humans. As a gregarious “shenanigator” with more than 20 years of experience in workforce and human development, he’s worked with a multitude of school districts and agencies to explore and improve the way people approach their lives through his emotional intelligence curricula and training company, IMAGO.

Edgar will share insights on the importance of Social Emotional Learning in today’s educational world, as well as his own story in starting a company to impact K-12 education from outside the system.

Thursday, February 13, 2020 | 5:30–7:00pm
University of the Pacific, Sacramento Campus
Campus and Law Library Grand Salon
3200 5th Avenue, Sacramento, CA 95817

5:30–6:00pm | Mix and mingle (with appetizers)
6:00–7:00pm | Discussion with Edgar Blunt

RSVP at bit.ly/EdDisrupt-Feb13

Educational Disruptors is a regular discussion with innovators in education, sponsored by Pacific’s Educational Entrepreneurship Graduate Program.

Funding for this event is provided by the Harris Lecture Series Fund.

For questions about accessibility or reasonable accommodations, please contact Services for Students with Disabilities at 209.946.3221 or ssd@pacific.edu.

with Edgar Blunt
Founder and CEO, IMAGO

UNIVERSITY OF THE PACIFIC

Benerd College